

The Valley Forge Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society prides itself on always offering an exceptional selection of plants.

The selections offered and the varieties in bloom may vary from year to year, but the quality is always the best. Native plants have not been collected in the wild.

This year's selections include:

- Rhododendron species and Rhododendron hybrids, (many not commercially available)
- Native azalea species, native azalea hybrids, and other deciduous azaleas
- Evergreen azalea hybrids (many not commercially available)
- Shrubs and Trees (including Weeping Japanese Maple and Bald Cypress)
- Conifers
- Hostas
- Wildflowers
- Ferns and other Perennials.

Photographs and information on many of these plants will appear on our chapter website <http://www.ValleyForgeARS.org>

Our mission is to make gardeners aware of the many varieties of the genus Rhododendron, which includes azaleas. Beautiful blooms and foliage are a valuable four-season addition to any garden: New growth is often as attractive as are the flowers in spring, leaf color and texture add interest in the summer, foliage can be brilliant in fall, and plant architecture is a bonus in winter.*
